Dog licenses honor fire service professionals

Fire chief obtains 'badge number one'

By Sarah Platanitis
Turley Publications
Correspondent

Agawam's Animal Control Officer hopes that special 2014 dog tags will help promote the importance of dog licensing.

"Last year we paid tribute to our men and women of law enforcement by ordering blue badge-shaped dog licenses. This year I thought it would be fair to honor our firemen and women, so that's why we chose red fire hydrants," said Animal Control Officer Allison Strong.

Each year the pattern and color of the license is changed so Strong can tell from afar if a dog has the most up-to-date license.

Agawam Fire Chief Alan Sirois and his dog, Chopper, were issued fire hydrant license number one.

"When I heard from ACO Strong that they were going to pay homage to the firefighters this year, I said that we'll be right down and that she could put us down for badge number one," said Sirois.

Chopper, an obedient 9-year-old Boxer, was in good spirits and quite curious during her visit to the Agawam Police Department to get her new tag.

Sirois said his family chose the breed because of its happy temperament and loyal and affectionate demeanor. Chopper stays home while Sirois goes to work because she does not like the sounds of sirens and horns.

"Many of the firefighters have dogs and cats. Many have families and small kids so they enjoy having pets around. I would say that there are probably studies saying that having animals taking care of you as you take care of them can relieve stress from a tough job," said Sirois.

Strong called attention to the importance of dog licensing and why it is imperative to remember to renew each year before April 1.

"For starters, it is state and local law that every dog be licensed," she said. "A lot of times we hear that a dog never leaves the yard or that it doesn't go outside of the house but sometimes our emergency personnel have to come rushing in so dogs get scared and rush out."

Strong has seen situations where a door has accidentally been left open or a dog gets caught up in the excitement of company arriving for the holidays and runs off. Most distressing is when a house is broken into and dogs escape because they are fearful of the intruders.

"Even a dog that is micro-chipped still needs a license. I'm the only one in town with a micro-chip scanner so if I'm not working and your dog isn't tagged we have no way to get the dog home to you. Also, rabies tags don't count. Vets aren't open on holidays but we're here 24/7 and can get the dog home safely," she said.

Licensed dogs always get home because each license is issued a specific number and Agawam Police dispatchers have all of that information in a binder. If someone calls and says they have found a dog with a specific tag number, they can look it up to find out exactly where that dog belongs.

There is also an option to list an emergency contact on the chance that a dog gets out while someone is at work, on vacation or away for any reason. It is a very big deal since that extra safe place ensures that a pup's paws will never touch the pound.

Relay 'stars' readying to finish fight against cancer

By Mike Lydick
Turley Publications
Correspondent

AGAWAM — When Hollywood holds a star-studded event — such as the Golden Globes or the Academy Awards — it rolls out the red carpet. Similarly, a purple carpet will be rolled out later this month in Agawam for a star-filled event.

A purple carpet, which celebrates the life-saving programs and services of the American Cancer Society, will be used at a kickoff rally for the 2014 Relay For Life of Agawam on Thursday, Jan. 23. (In the event of inclement weather, it will be held Thursday, Jan. 30.) Although the event at the Agawam High School cafeteria won't have much glamour and glitz or shiny award statues, there will be food, fun, and prizes for the "stars" who attend.

The kickoff — from 6 to 8:30 p.m. — marks the official launch of fund-raising efforts for the 2014

Flooding closes road

Rain, melting snow cited as cause

By Jennifer Wroblewski
Staff Writer

AGAWAM — Arnold Street in Agawam was closed Saturday night into Sunday when the roadway flooded and a vehicle was trapped in over a foot of water.

According to Chris Golba, superintendent of the Department of Public Works, the street became impassable when the amount of melting snow and rain overwhelmed the drainage system. Crews arrived on scene shortly after 7 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 11 and found a section of roadway flooded with about a foot and a half of water. At least two residences were affected by the flooding, he said.

Department of Public Works employees were unable to find any problems with the drainage system, but Golba did say that the area has had problems in the past.

AGAWAM — Some city councilors have expressed concerns over a proposal to create a mixed-use zone known as "Business C" that Mayor Richard A. Cohen and the Planning and Conservation Department hope will lead to a revitalization of the area surrounding Games and Lanes on Walnut Street Extension.

Planning and Conservation Director Deborah Dachos will be going over the proposal with the city council and the planning board at a workshop scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 16 at 6 p.m. at the Agawam Public Library.

Neal: Agreement not in best interest

WASHINGTON - Congressman Richard E. Neal, a senior member of the House Ways and Means Committee, released the following statement in response to the Trade Promotion Authority (TPA) proposal introduced in Congress last week by Sen. Max Baucus and Rep. Dave Camp.

"The House and Senate introduced legislation today that would give President Obama the authority to fast-track international trade agreements. As a member of the committee that has jurisdiction over trade policy, I have a long history of expressing my concerns about granting this authority. In fact, the last time fast track was invoked in Congress, I voted against it because the proposed agreement was not in the best interest of our economy and workforce at the time.

"These are the fundamental principles I bring to any debate about trade negotiations. The process must be transparent, inclusive and deliberative, and the policy must be beneficial to the American people. I take very seriously my role in oversight of U.S. trade policy, and am hesitant to grant any administration trade promotion authority. But I will make a final determination once I have read the legislation and heard from my constituents," said Neal.

baystateparent expands to Western Massachusetts

MILLBURY – baystateparent magazine, named “Best Parenting Publication” by the Local Media Association six out of the past nine years (including in 2012), announced Monday that it will publish a Western Massachusetts edition beginning this winter, featuring editorial content and advertising specific to the Franklin, Hampshire and Hampden Counties. The 18-year-old magazine, owned by the Holden Landmark Corporation, is a resource for families with children of all ages and is currently available at 1,000 locations in Central and Eastern Massachusetts. Its readership includes nearly 100,000 parents, grandparents and educators each month.

The Western Massachusetts edition of baystateparent will be in partnership with locally owned and operated family-friendly businesses in the region -- Baystate Health, Big Y Foods and Turley Publications.

baystateparent owner and publisher Kirk A. Davis said, “I purchased ‘Today’s Parent’ over 10 years ago, hoping to make an already great publication even better, in part changing its name to be more reflective of our statewide aspirations. Over this past decade, we have consistently provided today’s active moms and dads relevant, easy-to-access and timely information that empowers their entire family to take advantage of the vast opportunities – both educational and recreational – available in the culturally rich and diverse New England region. In the process, we have garnered over 100 awards, making ours the most celebrated parenting publication in the country. Now, it’s time to broaden our distribution and share our stories with a population in an area of Massachusetts I have always loved and once lived in Western Massachusetts.”

Beginning with its March issue, the company will distribute more than 25,000 complimentary copies of the all-color Western Massachusetts-specific edition of baystateparent at 500 area locations on/about the first of each month, including more than 20 Big Y stores.

Big Y’s Wellness Team and registered dietitians will provide content to baystateparent editorial staff, who will in turn share it with readers through its print publication, online site and social media. Expansion into Western Massachusetts will add 60,000 readers to the publication’s circulation base.

The inaugural March issue is dedicated to a comprehensive listing of and feature coverage of regional camps (day-stay and overnight). Subsequent editorial focuses include “Home and Garden” (April); “Your Passport to Summer Fun” (June); “The Baby Issue” (July) and “Back to School” (August).

Patrick Turley, owner of Turley Publications, Inc., commented, “We have printed baystateparent since Kirk acquired it over a decade ago, and are particularly excited to collaborate in marketing and promoting this wonderful publication throughout Western Massachusetts.” baystateparent is written and produced at its new offices at the Felter’s Mill building in Millbury.

A recent reader survey reported that 91% of its readers claim to use baystateparent to make a majority of their purchasing decisions. The company recently expanded its web site baystateparent.com, an online community devoted to parents of kids from birth through adolescence, to be able to include zoned event and advertiser listings. The company also produces live events through baystateparent Events, including parenting seminars and contests that place the children of readers on its cover.

Fight the flu with facts

With winter weather comes the dreaded flu season. And while some chalk it up to just an inevitable yearly occurrence, it's important residents know they can take steps to avoid contracting the flu by learning some basic flu facts.

The flu is a virus, so antibiotics cannot treat it. Still, there are steps you can take to alleviate symptoms that include high fever lasting three to five days, severe body aches, headache, fatigue, sore throat, cough, runny or stuffy nose, and vomiting and/or diarrhea, particularly in small children.

First – rest. Stay at home, and stay in bed. This will help you to recover more quickly and avoiding work or school will keep the flu virus from spreading to others.

Drink plenty of fluids, water or juice, to avoid dehydration.

Take non-aspirin pain relievers to reduce fever and pain.

For pregnant women, the flu can be especially difficult to deal with. Acetaminophen is the recommended treatment for fever during pregnancy. Women should also drink plenty of fluids, and seek medical advice to determine whether you need antiviral drugs: prescription pills, liquids or inhalers that fight flu by keeping germs from growing in your body. Antivirals work best when started within two days of the onset of symptoms, but moms-to-be can take them even after 48 hours. While there is little information about the effects of antivirals in pregnant women or their babies, no serious side effects have been reported.

The best defense against the flu is a flu shot. And it's not too late to receive one. The Centers for Disease Control recommends that everyone six months of age and older receive the flu shot that will provide protection against this year's virulent strain, which, according to Dr. Sarah Haessler of the Infectious Disease Division at Baystate Medical Center, can remain in the area through April.

Busting through the biggest myth about flu – the vaccine does not cause the flu; still, it does take about two weeks for it to become fully effective, so there is a chance that if you are exposed, you may still suffer symptoms.

Other protections against infection include frequent hand washing with soap and water or an alcohol-based hand rub. Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth, and avoid close contact with people who are sick.

Seek medical attention immediately if more severe symptoms develop, including “fast breathing, trouble breathing or bluish skin color; pain or pressure in the chest or abdomen; confusion or sudden dizziness; not drinking enough fluids, not being able to eat, or severe or persistent vomiting; flu-like symptoms that improve but then return with fever and worse cough; not waking up, being so irritable that the child does not want to be held or not interacting (children); fever with a rash (children); no tears when crying or significantly fewer wet diapers than normal (children).”

More information is available at redcross.org and www.mass.gov/flu or by calling the Massachusetts Department of Public Health's Immunization Program at (617) 983-6800.

The importance of 'community'

I am new to the community of Agawam. I have been interim pastor of the Agawam Congregational Church for only a few weeks. I was asked to share a thought with you that might be relevant to our community, especially our faith community. Before I retired in 2011, I was pastor of the Federated Community Church of Hampden for a little over 28 years.

The concept of “community” as expressed by the middle name of that church was integral to our ministry there. Why is this important? Because, as Gordon McDonald says in his book Mastering Personal Growth, “Without community, we cannot grow into healthy spirituality.” In order to fulfill our individual selves as well as fulfill God's purpose for us as His people, we need to “experience” community, not just “be a member” of a community. Church is a community; a place to receive, and I hope that you have received and are receiving something from your association with your church. There comes a time, though, when we need to take the next step. There are levels of involvement in the church – some are spectators, some seekers, others are followers and still others are builders. You know where you fit in your church community.

Over my years of ministry, I have taken a one-month sabbatical every three years to build. I have helped build houses for poor families in Georgia, in the inner city of Philadelphia, in tornado damaged Mississippi and on one occasion in El Salvador with the Rev. Rob Donaldson of the Feeding Hills Congregational Church and his family. I have also helped rebuild black churches burned by arson in the South. I was glad to have the chance to use my time for this building experience, both of the church structure and race relations. We here in Agawam in our various congregations are still building a church as well – a living church.

On one of my experiences, I remember seeing lumber sorted and neatly stacked – good looking but useless. It was only when those individual pieces were united with others that they became a useful part of the structure. Our churches are like that. Church is not complete without you in place and you are not fulfilled unless you are in place. To be in community is to be an integral part of the church. Community is giving and receiving (different from taking, by the way) and it affects the rest of our lives.

See you in church, in place, doing what only you can do.

'First Person Presentation' at Storowton Village

WEST SPRINGFIELD - Eastern States Exposition's Storowton Village Museum will present its annual First Person Presentation, "A Fireman of 1899 - His Life and Job," Friday, Jan. 17 at 7 p.m., in its historic Meetinghouse.

William N. "Bill" Moss, of Harvard, will recount the challenges of 19th century firefighters, both in their personal and professional lives. Experience the journey as Moss, dressed in period costume as a firefighter of more than a century ago, introduces audiences to a typical day's work in the life of a fireman at the height of the golden years of industry and city growth at the end of the 19th century.

Moss is a retired firefighter and frequently conducts lectures at the Massachusetts Firefighting Academy, Dartmouth College, Northeastern University and Old Sturbridge Village. A historian and teacher, Moss has been involved in historical character presentations for more than a decade. He also leads interactive workshops for adults and children.

This 45-minute entertaining and educational program for adults and children will be followed by a question and answer period. Admission is $5, children under 6 are admitted free and tickets will be available at the door.

Reservations for this event are encouraged but not required. For more information, call the Village at (413) 205-5051.

This event is weather permitting. If the weather is questionable, call the Village for details prior to your departure.

Free 'storywalk' open to area families

The Agawam Family and Community Program will host a free "storywalk," Saturday, Feb. 1 from 9 a.m. to noon at Agawam High School. The public is invited to escape the cold and enjoy a warm walk through the pages of Jan Brett's picture book, "The Mitten." Pages of the story will be displayed throughout the halls, allowing parents and children to read, look and laugh at the animals trying to find shelter from the snow.

When a young boy drops his white mitten in the snow, he goes on without realizing that it is missing. One by one, woodland animals find it and crawl in; first, a curious mole, then a rabbit, a badger and others, each one larger than the last. Finally, a big brown bear is followed in by a tiny brown mouse and what happens next makes for a wonderfully funny climax.

Funding for the Coordinated Family and Community Engagement (CFCE) Grant is provided by the Massachusetts Department of Early Education & Care (EEC).

For more information, call Michelle Conner, outreach coordinator, at (413) 821-0597 or email mconner@agawam-publicschools.org.

Relay ‘stars’ readying to finish fight against cancer

‘come on down’ to help us finish the fight against cancer and become a ‘Relay Star,’” said Janine Iacolo, event chair.
Sharing personal stories

Iacolo said each year a committee member is given the opportunity to tell their story at the kickoff rally about how cancer has changed his or her life. “Anyone participating in a Relay event plays a much bigger – and more important – role than any Hollywood star ever could on or off screen. Relay participants are on the frontlines of trying to stop cancer in its tracks,” she said.
Courtney Barberi, whose mother and aunt died from cancer at early ages, will be this year’s guest speaker. The 27-year-old an Agawam resident will talk about how those deaths – her mother from leukemia at age 46 in 2012 and her aunt from breast cancer at age 36 in 2005 – have made her a cancer fighter.

“My mom and aunt are why I started a Relay a team and why I’m so involved in the Relay For Life of Agawam,” said Barberi, who formed a team in 2012 to pay tribute to her mother for the very first Relay in Agawam. She also joined the committee that plans the Relay. “My family has suffered greatly from the impact of cancer – that’s what keeps me motivated.”

“We’re looking to cast more ‘stars’ like Courtney for our big event this spring: an overnight 16-hour nonstop Relay For Life,” added Iacolo, who is now serving her third year as event chair. “The kickoff is an opportunity for people to learn more about how they can become ‘Relay Stars’ by joining a team or forming their own team.”

The 2014 Relay is scheduled for Friday, May 16, and Saturday, May 17 at the Agawam High School track and sports field. To date, 17 teams and more than 60 participants have registered for the Relay.

“Nearly everyone has been touched by cancer – either personally or through a friend or family member who has been diagnosed with cancer. We’re hoping more cancer survivors and community members will join us by participating in the Relay,” said Iacolo.

Educating people about Relay

During the Relay, teams of people will set up campsites around the field and take turns walking or running around the track. Teams will have at least one representative on the track at all times.

At the kickoff, teams can register for the Relay. They will a mock campsite set up as well as several stations staffed by planning committee members to help teams better understand what Relay is and what happens during the event. “One of our kickoff goals is to educate new people on what Relay looks like and help them through the process of being part of our event,” said Iacolo.

While teams do most fundraising prior to the event, some hold creative fundraisers at their campsites during the Relay. Iacolo said this year’s fund-raising goal is $70,000. Teams have so far raised more than $1,000 toward that goal. Last year’s Relay raised more than $62,000.

During the past two Relays in Agawam, teams have raised a total of more than $100,000. “These funds enable the American Cancer Society to change the lives of those touched by cancer within our community,” said Iacolo.

Helping people get well, stay well

The money supports vital, cutting-edge cancer research; provides cancer patients with services such as transportation to treatment, round-the-clock support at the national cancer information center (1-800-227-2345); helps scientists develop new generations of medicines to battle cancer. The bottom line: our Relay helps people stay well and get well.”

Jennifer Ducharme, Relay specialist for the New England Division of the American Cancer Society, has been assisting the planning committee. She said the Relay is a life-changing event that gives everyone in the community a chance to help defeat cancer. “People from all walks of life come together with a shared mission of furthering our vision of a world with less cancer and more birthdays,” she added.

To find out how to volunteer, or to RSVP for the kickoff, contact Ducharme at (413) 493-2124 or email jennifer.ducharme@cancer.org, or Iacolo (413) 478-9491 or email jiaco@aol.com. Council to debate mixed use zone dress their concerns,” said Dachos.

She said no changes have been made to the proposed zone change since it was originally presented to the council at a Dec. 16 public hearing.

“Only the council can make changes to the proposal at this point,” said Dachos.

She hopes that after the work session tonight, the council will be well-informed and be able to vote on the proposal at Tuesday’s regular council meeting.

Councilor Robert Rossi said he has concerns over the Business C zone giving potential property owners too much lee-way and allowing them to build whatever business they want by right. He suggested an overlay district in the Walnut Street Extension area may be more appropriate.

Rossi added the town of Agawam may be moving forward too quickly on a zone change when it is unclear what will become of the Games and Lanes property.

Councilor Gina Letellier asked if the building will finally be demolished, or should be demolished before the zone change takes place.

Dachos said there are still numerous environmental issues preventing the building from simply being demolished. There are contaminants on the property and there is no one willing to take on the project and expense of clearing out the property.

“The town could take the property through tax title,” said Dachos. “But then the town would have to take responsibility for the environmental issues there.”

Those responsibilities could cost the taxpayers at least $600,000.

In the meantime, the town is hoping to revitalize the rest of the area and create a more attractive downtown shopping area.

“I like the idea,” said Councilor George Bitzas. “It would be like a destination point. I have seen other towns do similar projects.”

Dachos said the Business C zone would do things such as relax certain zoning requirements like setbacks from the road and lot sizes. Dachos would like to see the zone create a pedestrian shopping center.

There are parking issues that do need to be addressed. Dachos said the town is seeking a $1 million grant to address parking in the area.

The proposed zone will affect 17 total properties on Walnut Street Extension. The properties are currently zoned Business A, Business B, and in a couple of cases, Industrial A.

There is also the possibility for allowing residences to be created above businesses.

The entire bylaw is 12 pages long and is available for viewing at the Office of Planning and Community Development, located at Agawam Town Hall.

Following the workshop, the Agawam City Council will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 21. The continuation of the public hearing for the new zone is on the agenda.

Area resident Michael Berthiaume told Agawam Advertiser News that he has called numerous times since 2008 to complain about water issues in the area.

“Until now, no one realized the severity,” he said. “No street lights, no indication, just three-plus feet of water pops up on you.”

Berthiaume went on to state that he lives in the basin of the street and that water gets in his garage every year.

“I was told to build up my garage to stop the water from getting in,” he said.

DPW crews remained in the area until Sunday, Jan. 12.

Golba cautioned drivers not to venture through puddles or flooded areas.

“If that had been a water main break, the car could have submerged because the road could have given way,” he said.

At presstime, the street had been cleaned up and the road was reopened, said Golba.

Firefighters battle car fire

One person injured, transported to Baystate

Firefighters battle a car and car carrier fire at Shibley Court apartments Monday. One person was taken to Baystate Medical Center with injuries.

By Jennifer Wroblewski
Staff Writer

AGAWAM — One person was treated for minor burns following a car and car carrier fire at Shibley Court apartments in Feeding Hills Monday.

According to Agawam Fire Chief Alan Sirois, the fire occurred Jan. 13 at 4:01 p.m. on Norman Terrace. When firefighters arrived, a motor vehicle — which was inside a car carrier — was fully engulfed in flames. It took just five minutes to extinguish the fire, but crews remained on scene for more than 20 minutes to put out hot spots.

Sirois said the cause of the fire was not suspicious.

“There was an individual working on a car inside the car carrier and it backfired,” he said. “As a result of the backfire, there was a catastrophic failure of a portion of the fuel system which caused it to go up very quickly.” That individual — a Feeding Hills resident whom Sirois declined to identify — was transported to Baystate Medical Center in Springfield with minor burn injuries, he said.

Additional information was not available at presstime.

Dog licenses honor fire service professionals

“Pounds are scary places for dogs. We’d rather bring them home than take them there,” said Strong. “We rent space in Westfield Animal Control and have to drive all the way out by Barnes Airport if a dog has no identification. The time to get the dog settled, fill out paperwork and drive all the way back takes me off the road and away from what I’m doing and any emergencies here.”

Strong greatly emphasized the importance of calling Animal Control when a dog runs off instead of going out to look for it on your own.

“When someone calls us, there are more eyes on the road looking for it. Also, if I find your dog and you’re out looking for it, even a licensed dog has to do to the pound if no one is home,” she said.

Revenue collected from licensing fees pay shelter bills. Spayed and neutered dogs are $10 while in-tact dogs are $25. A copy of a dog’s current rabies vaccine certificate, not the tag, is also required. Dogs new to the system must also submit proof of their spay/neuter certificate.

The licensing season runs from April 1 to March 31.

“I tell people that a good hint to remember when to license is when you do your taxes,” said Strong. “Whether you take the actual paper license or a blank application and put it in your tax folder, it’s a reminder that you see so you don’t forget.”

Residents can license dogs in-person or by mail. Forms are located in the Agawam Police Department lobby at 681 Springfield St. in Feeding Hills and on the town website (agawam.ma.us/filestorage/66/96/doglic.pdf).

“For those unable to pick up forms, like the elderly or disabled, they can call me and I will be more than happy to mail them a form. There’s really no excuse to not license your dog,” said Strong.

For more information about dog licensing or the upcoming spring rabies clinic, call (413) 786-4767 or contact Animal Control Officer Allison Strong directly at (413) 726-9754.

B's Hive creates a buzz in Agawam

AGAWAM — The B's Hive, a new fashion store located at 289 Springfield St., fills the need for affordable women's plus-sized clothing. The retail/consignment store's owner, Beth Atwood, officially opened her doors for business Oct. 7, and has expressed appreciation for the people who have come in since to welcome her to the area.

The name of Atwood's store stems from her childhood. When she was 12 years old, her father, Bob, decided to become a bee keeper and Atwood learned about keeping bees and extracting their honey with her father. For years, she helped him with his hobby. When Bob passed away, Atwood wanted to keep her father's memory with her, which she accomplished by incorporating their first initial - "B" - into the name, "The B's Hive."

Walking into the store, customers will notice Bob's bee knick knock collection adorning the walls, shelves, glass counter and more. There are also a few of Bob's awards from the Topsfield Fair competitions. In addition, Atwood has added to his collection in order to continue the tradition her father started. One customer even sold her a "skep" (straw bee hive) which now sits in the front window.

The B's Hive - which Atwood said is the only retail/consignment shop in Western Massachusetts that is exclusively designed for plus-sized women - has morphed into the store Atwood always had in her mind. Aside from affordability, Atwood wanted to offer women a variety of clothes - from dress to casual, gowns to dresses, blazers to coats, dress pants to jeans, skirts, shirts, shoes, scarfs and more.

There is even a special location in the store for children to play.

The B's Hive is open every day, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., except Sunday and Wednesday. For more information, call 301-6561 or visit www.thebshive.com.

Notes from the Music Room

By Darcy Davis

To continue on the Tournament of Roses Parade, a good coverage can be found on the Home and Garden Channel, which has no commercial breaks. This year, the units seemed to go by so fast, there was hardly enough time to get out all of the information about each and that I thought was needed before they were gone.

They all seemed to have a couple hundred members with many approaching the 300 and 400 level. This compares with the Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York where each band has 25 seconds of air time to make their approach, make a formation and perform as they leave the camera area. In the Rose Parade, it took only a minute or so for each band to come into view, most not stopping and continuing along the parade route.

Bands came from near and far, including San Antonio, Texas; Bethlehem, Penn.; Japan; Kingsport, Tenn.; Rosemont, Minn.; Carmel, Ind.; St. Augustine, Fla; and Reno, Nev., as well as the Michigan and Stanford bands with their football teams. This only scratches the surface, so a little more next week.

Free blood pressure management program

SPRINGFIELD — In the United States, nearly 80 million adults have high blood pressure and 47 percent of those do not have it under control. High blood pressure, or hypertension, is a leading risk factor for heart disease and stroke — the nation’s number one and number four leading causes of death. Yet, high blood pressure (HBP) can often be controlled under the supervision of a doctor with lifestyle changes and if necessary, medication.

The American Heart Association and American Stroke Association have launched the “Check. Change. Control.” program designed to close the gap in in the treatment of high blood pressure. This free program empowers people to learn about, monitor and manage their blood pressure through a combination of resources.

Although all groups are affected by high blood pressure (HBP), Africans Americans have an increased incidence of hypertension with over 40 percent of males and 47 percent of females suffering with HBP. Not only is HBP more severe in African Americans than Caucasians but it also develops earlier in life.

There are different theories on why African Americans have a higher incidence of high blood pressure. There is often a higher incidence of diabetes and obesity which can contribute to high blood pressure. Additionally, research suggests that there may be a gene that makes African Americans much more salt sensitive. This trait increases the risk of developing HBP. In people who have this gene, as little as half a teaspoon of salt could raise blood pressure as much as five points.

The American Stroke Association notes that a high sodium diet can directly lead to high blood pressure which can contribute to several severe health issues including stroke, heart failure, heart disease, osteoporosis, stomach cancer and kidney disease. The Association notes that 97 percent of children and adolescents consume more than the daily recommended amount of sodium which can lead to major health issues later in life.

With nearly 70 percent of people who have had a first heart attack, 77 percent of those who had a first time stroke and 74 percent of those who have congestive heart failure having blood pressure higher than 140/90 mm Hg, it’s vital to gain control and maintain a healthy blood pressure level.

The “Check. Change. Control.” program is available to anyone interested in maintaining or controlling a healthy blood pressure level. Interested parties can visit www.heart.org/CheckChangeControl to learn more.

Offensive struggles stop Agawam

Stratton leads in win over Chicopee

By Gregory A. Scibelli

AGAWAM – The Agawam girls basketball team split two games during the past week, losing to Northampton while defeating Chicopee in a makeup game.

Against Northampton last Thursday night at home, the Lady Brownies struggled to score baskets early in the game while the Blue Devils maintained a consistent scoring attack throughout the game and left with a 57-40 victory over the Lady Brownies.

Agawam was led by Danielle Stratton, who had a really good second half and finished with 16 points. She was exceptional from the free throw line during the first half, and finished with seven made free throws for the game, the highest total for either team.

Margaret Frawley also had an excellent game, finishing with 12 points for Agawam.

Northampton started out with an early lead and Agawam had trouble stopping their shooters. The Lady Brownies also had a difficult time shooting on their end of the court. Northampton placed a lot of pressure on Agawam, forcing several turnovers during the first quarter.

Agawam was able to come back a bit, getting four free throw points from Stratton, but trailed 15-8 after the first quarter.

The Lady Brownies had similar struggles in the second quarter, having trouble making baskets while Northampton's defense outplayed them.

By the end of the first half, Agawam trailed 28-17.

After the break, Agawam tried to stay in the game, but Northampton continued to build their lead. The Lady Brownies did play better in the second half, but it was not enough to pick up a win against the Blue Devils, who improved to 5-1 and appear poised to be a top contender in Division 1 for the second straight season.

Last Tuesday, Agawam and Chicopee met in a makeup of a snow out from Jan. 2.

The Lady Brownies struggled mightily in the first half, but overcame that for an amazing second half and a come-from-behind victory as they defeated the Pacers 45-42.

The Lady Brownies were limited to just two points in the second quarter. They trailed 24-11 at half-time before their defense picked up

Agawam pins down Westfield

AGAWAM – The Agawam wrestling team had a successful morning last Saturday at Westfield High School and made it three out of four during the past week.

The Brownies won two of three meets at the Westfield Duals along with defeating Westfield in a dual meet last Wednesday.

Their biggest victory came against Gateway, as the Brownies defeated the Gators 42-6 in a short meet.

Gateway lacked depth heading into the Saturday morning duals at Westfield, and were not able to compete beyond 160 pounds.

Several Agawam wrestlers at the lower weights then scored easy pinfall victories.

Joe Herbert got it started for the Brownies as he picked up a pinfall at 126 pounds. He was able to score a reversal after losing control briefly during the match. Shortly after, Herbert got the pinfall, ending the match in the first period with 23 seconds remaining.

From there, Agawam cruised, Jonathan Sadowski picked up a pin at 132 pounds. He got a takedown on his opponent and then took about a minute to get the pinfall.

At 145 pounds, Anthony Basile was a winner as he scored a takedown, but had some trouble pinning his partner's shoulder to the mat. He scored the pin with 37 seconds left in the first period.

Matt Plumador and Vincent Derosé won their matches at 152 and 160 pounds, respectively. Both wins were by pinfall.

At the end of the meet, Brennen Liebel scored a pin in just over a minute to finish Agawam on a high note.

Agawam scored a big win over Westfield last Wednesday 50-23.

In the win, Agawam had two technical falls, matches won by 15 points or more. Joe Herbert and Anthony Caracciolo were both able to score with frequency and ended their matches before six minutes were up.

Three Agawam wrestlers won matches in the first 30 seconds of their respective matches. At 132 pounds, Sadowski scored the takedown and pinned Joe Burbee in 22 seconds.

At 182 pounds Fred Karl-Morin pinned Thomas Flaherty in 26 seconds. Nick Blais got a pinfall

Brownies rally to tie up Terriers

WEST SPRINGFIELD – The Agawam ice hockey team is no longer perfect for the regular season, but they are still undefeated after facing the top competition they will see this year in the Berry Division.

Agawam had two ties in the past week, tying East Longmeadow 6-6 in a slugfest last Saturday night at Olympia Ice Center. They tied Longmeadow 1-1 last Tuesday night.

For the first time this season, the Brownies trailed in a game by more than a goal.

After taking an early lead, East Longmeadow exploded for five goals off Connor McAnanama.

East Longmeadow had very few opportunities in the game, having only 16 shots on goal, but made the most of a number of them.

Agawam trailed 5-3 heading into the third period before getting a little bit of offense of their own, punching through three goals off East Longmeadow's Matt Gasparini to earn the draw.

The Brownies got two goals from Billy Wysocki and Zach Circosta, Joe Shea, Cam Rivest, and John Colwell scored the other goals for the Brownies. Rivest had three assists while Circosta and Seamus Curran each had two assists.

The Agawam offense was very aggressive, making 52 shots on goal, their highest total for this season.

The Brownie defense had trouble stopping Joseph Santaniello, who had three goals and an assist for the Spartans.

It was the first time in several years Agawam has played against the Spartans. The Spartans have been a perennial playoff contender in Division 3 for several years, but find themselves 1-4-2 so far this year.

Last Tuesday night, a rescheduled game against Longmeadow resulted in a draw between the two new rivals.

Shea scored the lone goal for Agawam while Ben Aronson had the sole score for the Lancers.

Agawam's defense continued to limit shots on goal, this time limiting Longmeadow to 24 shots on goal. Agawam, on the other side, had 34 shots. The Brownies have been operating like this the entire season.

Last year, Agawam started their

Falcons close out weekend with loss to Norfolk

The Springfield Falcons (25-8-1-3) were defeated by the Norfolk Admirals by the final score of 2-1 Sunday afternoon at the MassMutual Center, dropping their third straight game in regulation for the first time this season.

Jesse Blacker scored the game-winning goals for Norfolk with a wrist shot from the left wing circle that found the back of the net at 3:51 of the second period. Devante Smith-Pelly scored the first Admirals tally at the 3:26 mark of the first period, giving Norfolk a 1-0 lead.

Dalton Smith scored the lone Falcons goal, burying a rebound in front past Norfolk netminder Frederik Andersen at 9:52 of the opening frame. For Smith, the goal was his fourth of the season and first since Dec. 7.

Jeremy Smith made 26 saves on 28 shots in net for Springfield, falling for the second consecutive start for the first time since Dec. 4. Smith is now 16-6-2 this season.

Andersen stopped 25 of 26 shots to improve to 3-1-0 this season.

The Falcons went 0-for-4 on the power play, while allowing one score on six Norfolk opportunities with the man advantage. The goal was the team's first power play goal allowed in seven games, with the last one coming Dec. 29 versus the Providence Bruins.

Despite the loss, the Falcons remain atop the Northeast Division with 54 points, two points shy of the Eastern Conference-leading Manchester Monarchs. Springfield has four games in hand on Manchester

Falcons fall short in Hershey

The Falcons were defeated by the Hershey Bears, 5-3, Saturday night at the Giant Center, dropping their second game in a row for only the second time this season.

Sean Collins and Spencer Machacek both posted multi-point efforts in the team's loss. Collins had a goal and an assist, finding the back of the net at 13:26 of the first period to even the score at 2-2. Machacek assisted on all three Springfield scores, becoming the first Falcon to record three helpers in a single game since Tim Erixon accomplished the feat Friday, Oct. 18 at Providence.

Darryl Boyce got the Falcons on the board at 4:13 of the opening frame, deflecting a Will Weber point shot past Hershey netminder David Leggio to tie the score at 1-1. For Boyce, the goal was his eighth of the season and third in the last five games.

Michael Chaput scored the third Springfield tally, firing a wrist shot from inside the left-wing circle by Leggio to bring the Falcons to within one score with 3:00 remaining in the third period. The goal was Chaput's third in the last three games.

Hershey's five goals were scored by five different players, including Dustin Gazley, who notched the game-winning goal at 9:30 of the third period. Gazley tapped in a centering feed from Michael Latta to give the Bears a 4-2 lead at the moment. Latta had two assists in the contest and finished with a team-high +2 rating.

Cameron Schilling, Brandon Segal, Ryan Stoa and Nicolas Deschamps also scored for the Bears.

Springfield goaltender Mike McKenna earned a loss for only the third time this season and first since Nov. 8 versus Adirondack. The St. Louis native made 32 saves on 36 shots, falling to 8-3-0 with a league-best 1.69 goals-against average and .937 save percentage.

Leggio stopped 25 of 28 shots faced in net for Hershey, improving to 11-11-2 in 2013-2014.

Win streak snapped with loss to Devils

The Falcons fell to the Albany Devils, 3-0, Friday night at the MassMutual Center, snapping the team's four-game win streak.

Scott Wedgewood stopped all 21 shots he faced in net for Albany, handing Springfield only its second shutout of the season and first since Nov. 8 versus the Adirondack Phantoms.

Devils captain Rod Pelley had a goal and an assist, and finished the contest with a +2 rating. The Kitimat, British Columbia native scored the game-winning goal at 9:30 of the first period. Joe Whitney and Artem Demkov scored the insurance goals for Albany.

Smith made 23 saves on 26 shots, falling for the first time in his last four starts.

Strong first period fuels fourth straight win

Three first-period goals lifted the Falcons over the Albany Devils, 3-2, Tuesday night at the Times Union Center, matching a franchise-best eight-game road point streak.

In his return to the Springfield lineup after missing the team's last six games, forward Chaput scored twice in the contest. The 6-foot-2, 194-pound centerman put the Falcons ahead 1-0 at 2:56 of the opening frame, beating Albany netminder Keith Kinkaid with a toe drag in front of the net to free up the score on the doorstep. Chaput then scored a shorthanded goal, his second of the game, at the 12:53 mark, as he tipped in a Tim Miller centering feed to put Springfield ahead 2-1.

Miller finished with one assist in the contest, extending his point streak to six games. He has recorded seven assists over that span, which dates back to Dec. 28.

Boyce extended the Falcons lead to 3-1 with 4:16 remaining in the first period, deflecting a Machacek drive from the high slot past Kinkaid. Boyce's seventh tally of the season served as the eventual game-winning goal, his third of the season and second straight versus Albany. The Summerside, Prince Edward Island native also notched the game-winner in overtime of the team's 4-3 victory over the Devils Friday, Jan. 3.

Mattias Tedenby scored both Albany goals, his fourth and fifth in only four games this season.

McKenna earned his eighth win of the season, making 25 saves on 27 shots between the posts for Springfield.

Kinkaid stopped 18 of 21 shots, falling to 13-6-1 overall and 1-3-0 versus the Falcons this season.

With the victory, Springfield matched a franchise record, earning at least a point in eight consecutive road games. The mark was originally set during the 1995-1996 season and equaled in 2005, from the end of the 2004-2005 season and into the beginning of the 2005-2006 campaign.

Thirty-four games into the season, the Falcons lead the American Hockey League with 54 points, 25 wins and a .794 points percentage. Springfield is currently on pace to better the best record in the 78-year history of the AHL — a .775 points percentage earned by the 1992-1993 Binghamton Rangers.

Hale to perform concert after Jan. 20 game

The Springfield Falcons announced Friday that actress and country music artist Lucy Hale will perform a concert, presented by KIX 100.9, immediately following the Falcons home game versus the Adirondack Phantoms Monday, Jan. 20.

The contest is scheduled for 3 p.m., and the concert is available only to those who purchase a ticket to the Falcons game.

Hale is best known for her role as Aria Montgomery on the hit ABC Family series, "Pretty Little Liars," for which she won the People's Choice Award for Favorite Cable TV Actress.

Born and raised in Memphis, Tenn., Hale began signing at age 8. Her debut single, "You Sound Good To Me," written by Ashley Gorley, Luke Laird and Hillary Lindsey, is set to hit country radio early this year. The song became available for download Jan. 7.

Bruins' Campbell to appear at Falcons game

The Springfield Falcons announced Monday that Boston Bruins forward and Stanley Cup champion Gregory Campbell will appear at the team's home game Sunday, Feb. 23 versus the Norfolk Admirals, presented by Dunkin' Donuts.

The contest begins at 3 p.m. at the MassMutual Center.

Campbell, a veteran of over 500 NHL games and a member of the 2010-2011 Stanley Cup champion Bruins, will sign autographs on the concourse for a limited time from 3 to 4 p.m.

For tickets to the game Feb. 23, visit the MassMutual Center box office or go to Falconsahl.com. For discounted group rates, please call the Falcons front office at 413-739-GOAL (4625).

St. Denis, Goloubef selected to 2014 AHL All-Star Classic roster

The American Hockey League announced Thursday afternoon the roster for the 2014 AHL All-Star Classic to take place in mid-February, and Springfield Falcons defensemen Frederic St. Denis and Cody Goloubef were both selected to participate.

St. Denis leads all Springfield defensemen and ranks seventh among all AHL defensemen with 21 points through 34 games this season. The Greenfield Park, Quebec native also ranks third among all AHL defensemen with eight goals and leads the Falcons with a +12 rating.

Goloubef, who has spent the majority of the season paired with St. Denis on the blue line, has posted 15 points (four goals, 11 assists) and a +7 rating. The University of Wisconsin product is tied for the top spot among all AHL defensemen with two shootout goals and one shootout game-winner this season.

This is the second selection for St. Denis, who recorded an assist in the 2012 All-Star Classic in Atlantic City as a member of the Hamilton Bulldogs. For Goloubef, the selection is his first.

The All-Star team, consisting of 20 total players and six defensemen, will participate in a skills competition Tuesday, Feb. 11 and the All-Star Game Wednesday, Feb. 12 versus Farjestad BK of the Swedish Hockey League. All of the events will take place at Mile One Centre in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Falcon moves

Springfield forward Ryan Craig was returned on loan to the team by the NHL's Columbus Blue Jackets.

Craig has played six games for the Blue Jackets this season, recording four shots and a -3 rating. In 22 games with the Falcons this season, the Abbotsford, British Columbia native has totaled 12 points (six goals, six assists) and a +6 rating.

transition toward the Berry Division by playing Longmeadow. The Lancers defeated Agawam 4-2, though Agawam played very well in the loss.

With the draws, Agawam is still without a loss after playing nearly every team in the Berry Division and is 6-0-2. The Brownies have one more game against each league rival and must play Minnechaug twice. The Falcons have had a good season so far with a 4-0-3 record, but have only played three league games.

Agawam has some tough competition coming up, starting Thursday when they have a rematch against Longmeadow at 6:30 p.m. The Brownies will travel to Wayland on Saturday at 4:40 p.m. and then host Marblehead at 12:30 p.m. on Monday.

Some of the team members of Mighty Mechanics at last weekend's competition in Lexington.

The Agawam Robotics' seventh and eighth grade FIRST Tech Challenge (FTC) Mighty Mechanics team competed Jan. 11 at "The Battle of Lexington" in Lexington. The FTC program is for grades 7-12, and the vast majority of the 16 teams at the competition were high school teams. Nonetheless, the Mighty Mechanics rose to the challenge with a great robot. Two drive teams of three students worked hard at this year's "Block Party!" challenge (see www3.usfirst.org/roboticsprograms/ftc/game for more details). The programmers also worked feverishly between matches to get an autonomous program up and running from scratch – and it worked. Although the robot did not come in first place for on-field scoring, the vast majority of FTC awards are given out for everything other than the robot performance, and Mighty earned one of those awards – the "Think Award." This award is given to the team that best reflects the "journey" the team took as they experienced the engineering design process during the build season. Mighty places a lot of emphasis on STEM (science, technology, engineering and math), which is the primary focus of FIRST (For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology). The team is also lucky to have some very talented parents who presented "Mighty Moments" on materials, leverage and simple machines. "As a parent and mentor, it was truly wonderful to watch our students gain new experience as they participated as a team in their first tournament," said parent and mentor Jay Snow. "They really began to see their efforts come to life."
